About The Cambridge Heart Clinic

The Cambridge Heart Clinic is a specialist cardiology centre focused entirely on the management of cardiovascular disease.

The Cambridge Heart Clinic is located within Addenbrooke's Hospital, part of the Cambridge University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust. Addenbrooke's is one of the largest and best known NHS hospitals in the UK, with a reputation for world-class research and a name synonymous with excellence nationally and internationally.

The Cambridge Heart Clinic provides a comprehensive range of cardiology services that include outpatient based investigations such as screening, electrocardiography, echocardiography and stress tests, as well as invasive cardiac procedures such as angiography and pacemaker insertion. The Heart Clinic comprises a fully equipped outpatient suite, a state-of-the-art cardiac catheter laboratory with electrophysiology equipment and a recovery suite for eight patients with a further five private patient rooms.

Our Heart Clinic is led by a team of Consultant Cardiologists from Addenbrooke's Hospital. They are at the forefront of their respective areas of clinical practice, and are supported by a team of cardiology professionals that includes specialist nurses, physiologists and radiographers. Together, they provide expertise across every aspect of cardiovascular disease management.

Our referral process is simple and efficient with waiting times kept to an absolute minimum. We offer easy access with free parking close to our Heart Clinic. Outpatients see our consultants in the dedicated 'Regent's Park Suite' and diagnostic tests can usually be carried out at the first appointment. If you require a catheter laboratory procedure we will make your stay with us as comfortable as possible.

“Expertise across every aspect of cardiovascular disease management, from outpatient consultation, diagnosis and screening, through to performing complex pacing and interventional cardiology procedures.”

You will be escorted to a private room with ensuite facilities, flat screen television with a choice of DVDs, DAB radio, direct telephone, Egyptian cotton bed linen, nurse call facilities and a menu selection of quality food and wine.

In summary the Cambridge Heart Clinic provides world-class specialist care and the very highest standards of service, backed up by the confidence of being in a top-performing NHS hospital. So whether you are insured or paying for your own treatment, we are happy to welcome you.

About The Cambridge Heart Clinic (continued...)

The Cambridge Heart Clinic is a partnership between Cambridge University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust and a company called Regent's Park Heart Clinics.

Regent's Park Heart Clinics is a specialist cardiovascular services company that has been delivering invasive cardiology services in partnership with Addenbrooke's Hospital since 2006. The company has established a track-record of developing cardiovascular joint ventures with the NHS since 2002 and is the fastest growing independent provider of cardiovascular services across the United Kingdom. The Cambridge Heart Clinic is one of a series of specialist cardiology centres the company has developed across the UK. The partnership between Regent's Park and Addenbrooke's Hospital means that private patients are assured of a first-class patient experience in a safe, high-quality environment. It also means that the Trust can re-invest surplus monies back into NHS patient care.
