All information that we hold about you will be held securely and confidentially. We use administrative and technical controls to do this. All CHC staff, contractors and committee members receive appropriate and on-going training to ensure they are aware of their personal responsibilities and have contractual obligations to uphold confidentiality, enforceable through disciplinary procedures. We will only use the minimum amount of information necessary about you. Where possible CHC will use information that does not directly identify you, but when it becomes necessary for us to know or use personal information about you, we will only do this when we have an appropriate legal justification for doing so.

Multiple staff will have access to your clinical record. For example, our administrative staff access the record to process and file information from the letters the clinician writes, they also follow up medical queries with teams. All staff have to sign a confidentiality agreement and are bound by their contract of employment which does not allow them to disclose any information about your health care to anyone outside the organisation unless it is with another clinical team for the purpose of your health care.

In addition, everyone working for the NHS has a legal duty to keep information about you confidential. The NHS Care Record Guarantee provides a commitment that all NHS organisations and those providing care on behalf of the NHS will use records about you in ways that respect your rights and promote your health and wellbeing.

We will not divulge your record to any other patients or family members unless you give us permission to do so. Some patients prefer for a family member or friend to act on their behalf. If you wish for someone else to act on your behalf please let us know and we will make arrangements with you for this to take place. You can withdraw this consent at any time but you must let us know if you no longer wish for us to discuss your health with the nominated person.

Our parent company is ISO 9001 certified whereby we are externally reviewed on an annual basis to ensure that our handling of information is done so safely and in line with best practice and legislation.

Please note that although providing your mobile number and email address and stating a preference to be communicated by a particular method will be taken as an affirmative confirmation that you are happy for us to contact you in that manner, we are not relying on your consent to process your personal data in order to correspond with you about your treatment. As set out in Schedule 1 below, processing your personal data for those purposes is justified on the basis that it is necessary to provide you with healthcare services.

9. Surveys

If we have your mobile number or your email address we may use this method of communication to contact you regarding patient surveys which are for the purpose of improving our service and monitoring patient outcomes. We will share your information with these companies under the strictest data protection arrangements. If you would like further information regarding these third party companies, please contact our DPO.

We will not otherwise share, sell or distribute any of your personal information to any third party without your consent, unless required by law. Data collected will not be sent to countries where the laws do not protect your privacy to the same extent as the law in the UK, unless rigorous checks on the security and confidentiality of that data are carried out in line with the requirements of the EU General Data Protection Act.

You may want us to share health information held about you with others for purposes other than your care. This could include with insurance companies, medical report for a mortgage, life insurance, for immigration purposes, with a solicitor representing you in a personal injury claim. In such cases this will only be done with your signed and explicit consent. We will only share the minimum agreed information.

12. Sharing non personal data for secondary/ non direct care purposes

CHC will not share personal identifiable data and or other confidential data about patients to support the planning of NHS and social care services, without seeking explicit patient consent to do this.

We may share data about patients in a non-personal format (either anonymised* or pseudonymised) in order to support the planning of NHS and social care services. This data will only be used for health or social planning purposes and not for any other purposes (such as commercial, insurance or marketing purposes). Sharing of such data will be managed in accordance to a formal sharing arrangement and under tight Information Governance controls’.

*Anonymisation: is the process of rendering data into a form which does not identify individuals or makes the risk of re-identification sufficiently low in a particular context that does not constitute personal data.

Pseudonymisation: Pseudonymised data are data in which individuals are disguised by using a unique identifier that does not reveal their ‘real world’ identity. Provided the organisation holding the pseudonymised data does not have access to the key to re-identify the subjects, such data are effectively anonymous and does not constitute personal data.

Occasionally, when the CCGs are commissioning new services or working out how effectively we deliver healthcare to you we use your data to answer questions such as:

- How many patients with chronic back pain seen in the Treatment Centre could have received care closer to home, in a community setting?
- Which clinical pathways might we establish in the community to better prevent hospital attendances?

You can request that we stop your data being used in such analyses. If you do this we will not pass any of your information onto the analysing partner.

13. Sharing your data for non-direct care nationally

Data about your health can be extracted by NHS Digital. NHS Digital receives monthly streams from each hospital about admissions, outpatient attendances and A&E visits, from community services and from mental health care services. They can also receive a flow from the GP dataservers.

The main users of this data are in fact the Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCG), who commission health care services on your behalf and who monitor the effectiveness of all parts of the healthcare system locally. The CCGs receive your NHS Number, but not your name, date of birth or address, and then encode that. However they can use the code (pseudonym) to link your records together to understand your healthcare journey.

This data may be used for various purposes such as research. Organisations wishing to access this data must go through a formal process and will not receive personal identifiers such as your name, address or date of birth.

You can object to your data being used in such analyses and we will record it in our information system using specific codes so that NHS Digital can in theory react to this.

If you object to your clinical data being shared out by NHS Digital then please tell us and we will record this.

14. International data transfers

We (or third parties acting on our behalf) may store or process information that we collect about you in countries outside the European Economic Area ("EEA"). Under the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), companies transferring information outside of the EEA must ensure that such transfers are subject to appropriate safeguards to ensure an adequate level of data protection. Where we make a transfer of your personal information outside of the EEA we will take the required steps to ensure that your personal information is protected.

CHC may transfer your personal data outside of the EEA to third parties providing medical administration services. In order to rapidly process your correspondence we work alongside a company called Prescribe, who provide medical administration services that enable non-urgent clinic dictations and correspondence to be typed efficiently but under strict guidance. The process used meets the Caldicott Principle 2016 (<https://www.igt.hscic.gov.uk/Caldicott2Principles.aspx>) and uses information that Prescribe cannot use to identify you specifically from (your date of birth and local hospital identifier (not NHS number)). The server that houses the dictations is based in the United Kingdom and medical administration staff based in the Philippines access the dictations remotely. We have undertaken a privacy impact assessment to ensure this process is safe and meets the requirements under the relevant laws.

If you would like further information regarding the steps we take to safeguard your personal information, please contact the DPO using the details set out at Section 3.

15. How long do we keep personal information for?

We will only keep your personal information for as long as reasonably necessary to comply with our legal and regulatory obligations. If you would like further information regarding the periods for which your personal information will be stored, please contact our DPO for further details.

16. What are the purposes for which your information is used?

We may 'process' your information for a number of different purposes. The law requires us to have a legal justification for processing your data. The particular justification will depend on the purpose of the proposed use of your data. When the information that we process is classed as "special category of personal information", we must have a specific additional legal justification in order to process your data.

We will rely on the following legal justifications for processing personal data:

- For the purposes of providing you with healthcare and other related services pursuant to our agreement with the relevant Clinical Commissioning Group
- We have an appropriate business need to process your personal information and such business need does not cause harm to you. Under the law this is called a 'legitimate interest'.
- We have a legal or regulatory obligation to use such personal information.
- We need to use such personal information to establish, exercise or defend our legal rights.
- We have an obligation to use your personal information in the interests of public health.
- You have provided your consent to our use of your personal information.

You will find details of our legal justifications for each of our processing activities in Schedule 1 of this Privacy Notice.

17. Your Rights

Under data protection law you have certain rights in relation to the personal information that we hold about you. These include rights to know what information we hold about you and how it is used. You may exercise these rights at any time by contacting CHC's DPO.

There will not usually be a charge for handling a request to exercise your rights. If we cannot comply with your request to exercise your rights we will usually tell you why. There are some special rules about how these rights apply to health information as set out in the relevant legislation.

If you make a large number of requests or it is clear that it is not reasonable for us to comply with a request then we do not have to respond or we can charge you for responding.

Your rights include:

- The right to access your personal information
You are entitled to a copy of the personal information we hold about you and details about how we use it. Please note that in some cases we may not be able to fully comply with your request, for example if your request involves the personal data of another person and it would not be fair to that person to provide it to you.
- The right to restriction of processing
In some circumstances, you can ask us to suspend the use of your personal data. Sometimes we won't be able to comply with your request if it is necessary to keep your information in order to perform tasks which are in the public interest, including public health, or for the purposes of establishing, exercise or defending legal claims.
- The right to data portability
You can ask us to transfer your personal information to you or to another individual or organisation. The information must be transferred in an electronic format.
- The right to object to processing
You can ask us to stop processing your information where we are relying on legitimate interests as the legal ground for processing (when we refer to 'legitimate interests', this means that we have an appropriate business need to process your personal information and this business need does not cause harm to you).

- The right not to be subject to automatic decisions
You have a right to not be subject decisions that are made about you by computer alone. CHC does not carry out any automated decision-making in relation to your treatment.
- The right to withdraw consent
In some cases we need your consent in order for our use of your personal information to comply with data protection legislation. Schedule 1 sets out instances where we will rely on your consent for the purpose of processing your personal information. You have the right to withdraw your consent at any time. You can do this by contacting CHC's DPO whose details can be found in Section 3 above.
- The right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office
You can complain to the Information Commissioner's Office if you are unhappy with the way that we have managed any of your rights above, or if you think we have not complied with our legal obligations. More information can be found on the Information Commissioner's Office website: <https://ico.org.uk/>. Making a complaint will not affect any other legal rights or remedies that you have.

18. National Data Opt-Out Programme

NHS Digital is developing a new system called the national data opt-out which will give patients more control over how confidential patient information is used. The system will offer patients and the public the opportunity to make an informed choice about whether they wish their confidential patient information to be used just for their individual care and treatment or also used for research and planning purposes. Patients and the public will be able to use the system from 25 May 2018. All health and care organisations will be required to uphold patient and public choices by March 2020. To find out more about the wider use of confidential personal information and to register your choice to opt-out if you do not want your data to be used in this way, visit www.nhs.uk/my-data-choice. If you do choose to opt out you can still consent to your data being used for specific purposes.

19. Updates to this Privacy Notice

We may update this Privacy Notice from time to time to ensure that it remains accurate. If these changes result in any material difference to the manner in which we process your personal data then we will provide you with an updated copy of the Policy. This Privacy Notice was last updated on 24 May 2018.

20. Complaints or questions

CHC aims meet the highest standards when collecting and using personal information. For this reason, we take any complaints we receive very seriously. We encourage people to bring concerns to our attention if they think that our collection or use of information is unfair, misleading or inappropriate. We would also welcome any suggestions for improving our procedures. You can contact CHC's DPO with any complaints or questions.
